

University of Novi Sad (UNS) and Prince of Songkla University (PSU) are delighted to announce that the International Bioscience Conference and the 8th Joint International PSU-UNS Bioscience Conference – IBSC 2020 will take place on 29 – 30 September, in Novi Sad, Serbia.

IBSCs are held every two years and represent the seal of a long-standing partnership between the Prince of Songkla University (PSU) from Thailand and the University of Novi Sad (UNS) from Serbia.

IBSC 2020 will follow the tradition of the previous conferences and will bring together experts to discuss and share state-of-the-art in the complex and multifaceted field of biosciences, with particular focus on contribution to the achievement of Sustainable Development Goals. Special emphasis is put on the environmental impact on the biodiversity and eco-physiology of the living organisms, biochemistry and biomedicine, natural resources of bioactive compounds and sustainable agri-food, along with other related disciplines and topics.
